

Match tickets now on sale for Supporter Members

Rhinos Netball 2022 Supporter Members can now exclusively buy tickets for the team's Vitality Netball Superleague games at the EIS in Sheffield and the Allam Sports Centre in Hull for a priority period.

This will be the first opportunity netball fans can watch the team live in Yorkshire and there is already excitement building in the county around the side who finished fourth in their debut year and recorded a win over Champions Loughborough in their pre-season friendly this month.

The club have revealed a strong squad for their second year, with England players Jade Clarke, Vicki Oyesola, Sienna Rushton, Brie Grierson and Rhea Dixon returning and new signings Rebekah Airey, Amy Clinton and South African international Sigi Burger ready to make an impact.

The EIS in Sheffield is the venue for the team's first home game of the season against last year's semi-finalists Team Bath. Sheffield will also host two more games against London Pulse in March and Severn Stars in May.

The Allam Sports Centre in Hull will put on games against Strathclyde Sirens in April, Surrey Storm in May and the final home game of the season against Saracens Mavericks.

Fixtures that are due to be played at first direct Arena in Leeds will be sold directly by the venue from January 2022, further information on these will follow.

Rhinos 2022 Netball Supporter Members can purchase a ticket for themselves and one additional ticket for a guest for each game. Following the priority period, any remaining tickets go on general sale in 2022.

2022 Rhinos Netball Gold or Silver Season Membership do not need to purchase a ticket for these games as they are already part of the membership, however an additional benefit of this membership means they can purchase up to two tickets for their guests

Seating at the venue will be unreserved and spectators will choose their seat on the day of the match. This will be excluding the reserved Gold Members Seating area.
